Orka og loftslag

A close-up, top-down view of a spiral staircase. The central hub is a circular metal structure with concentric rings. The treads are made of wood and are arranged in a spiral pattern around the hub. The lighting is warm, highlighting the textures of the wood and metal.

An aerial photograph of a modern residential development. The buildings are dark grey with green roofs and balconies. The roofs are covered in grass and have small solar panels. The balconies have wooden decking and some have outdoor furniture. The buildings are arranged in a row, with a parking lot in front. In the background, there are other buildings, a road, and a body of water under a blue sky with some clouds. The text "Líffræðilegur fjölbreytileiki" is overlaid in the bottom left corner.
